Ingram brightens holidays for families impacted by cancer

Phoenix—December 3, 2016— Shyla A. Ingram, Valuation Analyst, spent two Saturdays in December putting up holiday decorations at the homes of families experiencing cancer.

Ingram volunteered with Sharon the Light, a nonprofit organization that aims to brighten the holiday season for families impacted by cancer. She teamed up with other volunteers from around the Valley to put up lights, decorations and more at three homes. Ingram said she was thrilled to donate her time and resources to a fantastic local organization.

Sharon the Light was founded in memory of Sharon Rausch, who lost her battle with cancer in 2013. During her last month at home, a group came together to put up holiday decorations so she and her family could celebrate their time together. The next year, the same group decided to decorate the home of another family impacted by cancer and Sharon the Light was born.
