Henry+Horne launches revenue recognition e-Book

Tempe—June 1, 2018—Henry+Horne has launched an e-Book to help companies get ready for the new revenue recognition standard taking effect in 2019.

The publication provides an easy to understand breakdown of what's changing and how companies and nonprofits can make a smooth transition. Besides an overview of the new revenue model, the e-Book includes industry specific guidance, practical considerations, how to apply the new standard, accounting examples and more. There's also a section of special topics organizations may need to consider.

Henry+Horne saw a need for a unique take on this new guidance to cut through the industry jargon and pages of accounting standards business owners would otherwise have to pour through.
